

It's so much more than moving. Your Guide to Stress-Free Rightsizing and Relocation

It's so much more than just a move...

Making a move at any age can be difficult and stressful. After 30, 40, or even 50 years in your current home, the process of rightsizing and relocating to a new home is overwhelming.

NASMM members are highly qualified Senior Move Managers who specialize in helping older adults and their families through the daunting process of transitioning to a new residence.

NASMM members understand that your move is so much more than just a move. This guide has been developed to provide you with tips and checklists to enhance your moving experience.

About NASMM

Founded in 2002, the National Association of Senior Move Managers is a not-for-profit, professional association of organizations dedicated to assisting older adults and families with the physical and emotional demands of later life living including downsizing, relocating, or modifying their homes. As the only professional association in North America devoted to helping the rapidly increasing 55+ population with middle and later life transition issues, NASMM members are committed to maximizing the dignity and autonomy of all older adults.

About Senior Move Management

Senior Move Management is the profession that assists older adults and their families with the emotional and physical aspects of relocation and/or "aging in place." Senior Move Management professionals — Senior Move Managers[®] — have backgrounds in gerontology, social work, health care, nursing and psychology, others come to this industry from the corporate world of project management, technology, accounting or marketing. Senior Move Managers[®] require a profound commitment to connecting with older adults and a desire to perform meaningful work.

Why is Senior Move Management needed now and not twenty years ago?

The numbers tell the story. The U.S. population aged 65 and over will jump nearly 80 percent when the Baby Boom generation retires (from 2010 to 2030). By 2030, the elderly will account for one-fifth of the total U.S. population. Did you also know that Americans age 85 and above comprise the fastest growing segment of the U.S. population?

Today, many families are geographically dispersed and adult children are often not able to help with the moving process due to distance, career and family obligations. For family members living far away, the barriers may be geographic.

Many seniors have no surviving children, or increasingly, their children are older adults themselves. If illness or death precipitates the move, the family is likely already drained both emotionally and physically. They need help. Senior Move Managers[®] emerged to fill these gaps and to facilitate the transition for everyone involved.

Older adults making a transition have usually not moved in 30, 40 or 50 years and need to downsize considerably. The organizational and physical tasks associated with planning and implementing such a complex move can be overwhelming for the entire family. Seek the help of experienced, insured professionals and call a Senior Move Manager[®].

What are the real benefits of Senior Move Management services?

Senior Move Managers[®] have significant expertise in resources and approaches that save money, reduce stress and produce quality results.

Personalized, client-centered services are designed to meet the client's needs and preferences. Families, particularly, should never doubt the power of an outside expert!

NASMM members are reviewed for insurance and experience requirements prior to acceptance. Additionally, NASMM requires all new members to take certificate classes in Senior Move Management Ethics and Safety. These programs, along with NASMM's ongoing educational programs reflect the NASMM commitment to professionalism and to working with older adults.

NASMM members adhere to a Code of Ethics and Standards of Practice; and NASMM members are guided and supported by the NASMM Ethics Compliance Committee.

One call to a Senior Move Manager[®] can connect you with services older adults and families need for a seamless, successful transition of all kinds.

Hiring a Senior Move Manager

Here are some helpful questions to ask when you are considering hiring a Senior Move Manager.

- How long have you been providing senior move management services?
- Have you participated in any formal training?
- Are you fully insured for liability and workers' compensation?
- Do you charge by the hour or by project? (NASMM recommends fees should be provided in writing to the consumer or responsible party prior to providing services.)
- Will you provide a written contract?
- Can you provide references?
- Are you a member of the National Association of Senior Move Managers (NASMM)?
- Do you offer customized floor plans?
- Do you provide organizing, sorting and downsizing services?
- Do you arrange for the profitable disposal of unwanted items through auction, estate sale, buy-out, consignment, donation, or a combination?
- Do you interview, schedule and oversee movers?
- How is the billing arranged for the movers?
- Do you pack or do you hire a moving company to perform the packing? (If the Senior Move Manager indicates they pack, make sure they have the appropriate insurance to cover any damages.)
- Do you completely unpack and set up the new home? (These services include unpacking everything, hanging pictures, draperies, installing electronics, etc.)
- Will you handle the transfer of my utilities, mailing address etc?
- What additional services do you offer? Items to consider include:
 - house cleaning
 - waste removal
 - shopping
 - senior escort
 - assisting with selection of a realtor
 - helping prepare the home to be sold

Senior Move Managers[®] have extensive, practical knowledge about the costs, quality and availability of various local community resources. Additionally, Senior Move Managers[®] frequently assist individuals who choose to stay in their own homes, but simply require expert organizational skills and solid knowledge of "aging in place" concepts to help them achieve their goal of ... not moving anywhere, but improving quality of life!

Ten tips to downsize and 'de-stress' your move!

10. Start Early – End Happy

It's never too early to begin the downsizing process. Begin by focusing on typical problem areas such as the attic, basement, garage, closets, file cabinets.

9. Get Generous

Since you can't take everything you own to your new home, now is the time to make arrangements to "gift" some of your treasures to special people in your life including, and especially family, helpful neighbors, friends, favorite organizations, or a church/ synagogue.

8. Save Your Memories

You may have boxes of old photos from every holiday, vacation and birthday party attended. What do you do with them? Consider the following ways to preserve family photos and stories: a customized process of audio and video recordings called Life-Storying. Copy your special photos on to CDs, or try your hand at scrapbooking. Also services now exist that will take all your photos, slides, and videos and do it for you.

7. New Looks for Books

If you own large quantities of books, you need to spend time downsizing your collections. Books occupy lots of space and are heavy to move. Consider donations to libraries or senior centers, or sales to used bookstores. Call on a book dealer for older books with potential value.

6. Use It Up..Don't Move It Out

Take an inventory of your canned goods, frozen foods, and paper products. Plan to use as many of these products as you can before moving. If you simply have too many of these items, think about passing them on to a local food pantry. Check to see if the Senior Move Manager you hire participates in NASMM's Move For Hunger Initiative.

5. Recycle the Toxins

Take time to put together a box or two of houshold, yard, and automotive cleaning products, as well as paint, that are considered hazardous. Visit Earth911.org for more information on hazardous collection in your area.

4. Don't Lose Touch

Create a list of people, places, and utilities/services that need to be notified of your upcoming change in address.

3. Space Plan Ahead

Most Senior Move Managers can provide you with a customized floor plan of your new residence. A floor plan will help you determine the pieces of furniture that will fit in your new home, and the best location of each. Knowing which pieces will fit in your new space will help you in your rightsizing process.

2. Pack a Survival Bag

Put together a survival bag for move day. It might include personal needs (medications, eyeglasses, toiletries, change of clothes, important papers, etc); kitchen needs (snacks, drinks, folding chair, disposable cups plates); basic tools (hammer, screwdriver, flashlight, tape, etc.); cleaning supplies (sponge, roll of paper towels, soap, etc.); and payment for mover – be sure you know which form of payment they accept.

1. Ask For Help

Don't be too proud or independent-minded to ask for help. Moving is not easy and you shouldn't do it all yourself. But don't wait until the last minute to ask for help. Some of these downsizing steps require months to accomplish. The best place to find help is through the National Association of Senior Move Managers (www.nasmm.org).

What Others Say About Senior Move Management

The New York Times

Jay Goldstein and his wife, Carrie, accumulated 15,000 books in the 46 years they lived in the Glen Cove split ranch where they raised their four children. Its sixth bedroom became the second story of a library. Just cleaning out the attic was a major thing," said Mr. Goldstein, who described himself as "lawyer by training, not a mover," and was very busy taking care of his wife, who has a neurological disease. With three grown children residing out of state, Mr. Goldstein, 75, decided to hire Barbara Feldman, a "senior move manager." Her mission: clear out the house, call in an antiques dealer to look at some of the books, and arrange for charitable donations. She also needed to have their new apartment completely set up by their move-in date.

Smart Money

If the term "senior move manager" is an unfamiliar one, you're not alone; membership in the national association currently hovers around 600. But it's a field you'll likely hear a lot more about as our population ages rapidly and the average occupancy rate for senior housing inches back up. What do you get . . .? In theory, a far less stressful late-life transition—not just a clipboard jockey who's organizing the whole shebang (distributing to family, donating, selling, dumping, planning, packing, moving), but a compassionate facilitator steeped in the ethical and safety issues of dealing with this often-vulnerable population.

CARE GIVER

Senior Move Managers: As parents, grandparents and other loved ones age, their lifestyles must changes as well, including the place they call home. A stressful time in anyone's life is "moving day." Many companies are popping up around the country, offering practical assistance to long-distance caregivers and compassion to the loved ones needing to change location. These services are not merely the typical brawny "moving guys," but professional consultants who provide room-by-room guidance.

Angies list

After Anna-Louise Fitzgerald's doctor diagnosed her with a heart condition, the active 68-year-old decided to put her affairs in order. That meant downsizing by selling her home in Fort Mill, S.C., and making plans to move to the Southminster Retirement Community in Charlotte, where she'll have easy access to nurses and others her age.Making the decision to move was easy, Fitzgerald says. But deciding which pieces to keep and what items to toss or donate? That proved to be more difficult because of the large quantity of things she's accumulated during her lifetime. On the advice of Southminster, Fitzgerald hired a senior move manager to help make those decisions and arrange the move details. "It's the best money I ever spent at this age," she says.

The New York Times

... many families are finding senior move managers

indispensable, and not just because they handle the logistics. Tensions can spill over when an elderly parent must relocate. Hundreds of necessary decisions and actions can swallow time the family may not have; the inevitable negotiations and concessions can trouble even the best parent-child relationships.

Senior Move Managers represent a knowledgeable, professional resource with whom Geriatric Care Managers can partner in working with elderly hoarders. They are well-equipped to handle the labor intensive, sometimes time-critical requirements of working with hoarders. Since they specialize in late life transitions where downsizing is the norm, Senior Move Managers have a variety of proven resources for disposal or donation of belongings.
